COMMENT OF

Striking Progress

THE enterprise which led to the resuscitation of the New Territories Agricultural Show, and the success which it enjoyed during last weekend, are both commendable and pleasing. Our local farmers, like our fishermen, have enjoyed the encouragement of an enlightened and progressive official policy since the Liberation, and the results have been commensurate. While it remains true that the Colony's requirements in meat. SHAH AND MEET

miori To Settle Fersonal Dispute

Teheran, Feb. 23. Shah Mohammed Reza Premier Pahlevi 🛸 and Mohammed Mossadegh will confer tomorrow in effort to settle the personal dispute between themselves, informed sources said today.

The dispute has complicated the already confused Anglo-Iranian oil problem. Predictions of a settlement came shortly after the Court Minister, Hussein Ala, called on Dr Mossadegh and as Parliament met in a special session to study the differences between the Shah and the Prime Minister.

The American Ambassador, Mr. Log Henderson, who has been negotiating for weeks with Dr Mossadegh on the oil problem, also conferred with Mr Ala and the Premier.

The serious dispute between the Shah and Dr Mossadegh complicated Iran's political situation tonight at a critical moment in the negotiations on the Anglo-Iranian dispute,

The disagreement arose, over the alling premier's refusal to approve the US$180,000,000 Royal budget.

Usually well-informed sources said Dr Mossadegh threatened to resign unless members of the Shah's Cour: stopped "intrigues" and Opposition Deputies stopped making trouble for him.

Dr Mossadegii said he would appeal for popular support in a radio broadcast.—United Press.

Ottawa, Feb. 23. External Affairs Committee of the House of Commons voted today against granting a hearing to the Communist-inspired Committee for 'a Cease Fire in Korea.

The chairman of the External Affairs Committee, Mr J. A. Bradette, said that the group was identified with the Canadinn Peace Congress headed by Dr James Endicott, recent winner of the Stalin Peace Prize. The group asked permission to present a resolution demanding an immediate cease-fire in Koren patterned on the demands of the Russian delegation at the United Nations.

A motion by Mr Tom Goode opposed granting the group a hearing and was carried by 16 votes to two.-United Press.

Hollywood. When you go to see Lana Turner in a film, there's no need to worry about seeing her with a scrubbed, girl-next-door look.

"Why should motion picture patrons pay to see the girl next door?" she asked. "They can open the back door and meet her in the yard."

Lana, it may be noticed, is all glamorous. The theory that an actress should wear a plain gingham dress and have dishpan hands to give her role a touch of realism is not for her.

Even as a down-and-out young extra in the opening scene of her new M-G-M romance. "The Bad and the Beautiful," Miss Turner maintains a touch of glamour. Her long, golden bob glistens. London. The nomination of 17 players to tour. England this summer under the captaincy of Lindsay Hassett comes at a time when thoughts of cricket are hidden beneath news of gales, snow and widespread flooding. Nonetheless, it is cheering to contemplate the list and think with pleasure of brighter days ahead.

After many rumours and counter-rumours on the ability of Miller and Lindwall to make the tour, it is gratifying to see both of them included for what will be their second visit to this country. The retirement of Sir Donald Bradman was an occasion for regret. The absence of Miller and Lindwall would have been a double blow that might have ruined the tour.

As captain, Hassett is likely to even forgotten he used to be one of the finest stroke players In the game.

From an English point of view it was unfortunate that Arthur Morris, vice-captain of the touring party, recaptured some of his old form in time for selection. On English wickets Morris threatens to be a thorough memico. The fact that the ball does not come through so quickly and that, on most grounds, is easier to sight is a fact that the lefthander appreciates. Let it be remembered that next to Bradman he was top-scorer with 1.922 rons during the tour. His 290 against Gloucester was the highest of the season.

Naturally, during this Coronn-Rich year, everyone is hoping for cricket of the highest quality. GEORGE GAINFORD CAN'T DECIDE BETWEEN AND OLSON

New York, Feb. 23. George Gainford, who was manager of the former World Middleweight Champion, Ray Robinson, said today that he regretted that Sugar Ray did not meet England's Randy Turpin in another bout and said that Robinson would have knocked out Turpin again.

Gainford said, "I am sorry is tough and game, but Turpin the 10th round this time. Turpin became a shattered idol in that second fight—he lost a lot of the confidence that made him hard to beat before." Commenting on the tournament to name Robinson's successor, Gainford said he did not know who to choose.

Most experts expect Turpin and Hawail's Carl Olson to meet 'eventually in the title

Gainford said, "I do not want to try to pick the winner of that bout. Olson is a busy fighter every second he is in the ring. He throws more leather than Turpin and like Turpin he

WRITER OUESTIONED SECRET

Washington, Feb. 23. Nathaniel Weyl, writer and admitted ex-Communist, was questioned in secret today by the Senate "Voice of America" investigators.

It was learned that he was called before Chairman Joseph McCarthy's permanent investigating Sub - Committee in connection with one phase of the inquiry into the State Department's overseas information programme.

Weyl testified before the Senate's Internal Security Sub-Committee last year that when he was a Communist he had seen Alger Hiss pay Party dues. Hiss, former State Department official, is serving a sentence for perjury.

Weyl dormerly worked for the Agriculture Department and several other agencies. He told reporters that he left the Government in 1947 and readily admitted his own Communism affiliations.

In the meantime, Senator McCarthy has accused "left wing writers and commentators" of "trying to make the exposure of the Voice of America an attack on the Administration."

He told newsmen: "It is not fib to do that. I think that the Secretary of State, Mr John Foster Dulles, has done a good job of house cleaning but it can't be done overnight.

"We have had no trouble with:

"We have had no trouble with the new teem, but old Dean Acheson lieutenants carefully placed in key spots have been trying to hamper the investigation. The exposure of those has done Mr Dulles a great service."

Indian Rice Experiments

Nations Department of Public Information reports on a rice hybridisation project in India and its importance to many countries in that part of the world. It boints out that the rice project was sponsored by the Food and Agricultural Organisation of the United Nations. Ten countries-India, Pakistan, Burna, Ceylon, Indonesia, Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya, Philippines and Japan—are taking part in it. The Indian Government has made available necessary land and other facilities for carrying out the experiments in Orissa. The purpose of experiments is to increase rice yield through hybridisation, adapting technique to suit different conditions in different countries.

Trade Advocates Rowning Romannis On The Increase

New York, Feb. 23.

Free trade advocates appeared in many corners of the nation's business and industry last week.

United States

Henry Ford II proposed scrapping all tariffs and import restrictions. His was not the first talk of free trade in recent months. But his. speech drew more attention and comment.

It more or less followed the policy statement of the Detroit Board of Commerce last October. It brought out a large number of advocates and it uncovered a few dissenters.

A clash over tax policy was in the making in Washington.

SOME OPPOSITION

Among the dissenters to the free trade idea was H. D. McClelland, Chairman, Universal Potteries.

He asked Mr Ford to back down from his public support of free trade on the ground that the motor magnate's stand "is an insult to the intelligence of the American workman." "You would have them drop their high standard of living and pave the way for cheap foreignmade merchandise which manufactured with starvation wages," Mr McClelland said.

Alley Capone

THE young man was in a hurry. He had spent the evening in town, and now was on his way to a bus that would take him back to the western suburb where he lived. It was shortly after ten o'clock in the evening.

As he turned into a narrow, alley-like street off Long Acre, that he knew to be a short cut to the bus stop, the young man whose name was Alfred, drew level with another, a biggerbuilt man than himself, who was

"I-I'm sorry," said Alfred, "I'm stoney broke;" He walked firmly on, resisting the temptation to sprint; towards some street more populous.

MOMENT later the shadowy A man overtook him, and now he barred Alfred's way-and in his hand he held as though it were, a dagger, the broken-off, wickedly jagged neck of a milk bottle. "No one's going to speak to me like that," he said, "you'll be finding yourself in hospital if you're not careful."

Alfred had to think quickly, "Don't be silly," he said to the bligger, threatening man." "Put that down, let's go and have a drink."

They were, curious circum-. stances for the issuing of an invitation, but the ruse worked. The bigger man dropped the milk bottle and, muttering, followed Alfred from the alley and into a nearby bar. Alfred bought two glasses of beer, and sat down with the stranger, whom he now could see was a tall tense man with a mop of tousled black hair.

"Cheerio," said Alfred without conviction raising his glass.

THE stranger did not reply; he was ferreting for something in his pocket. He pulled out a penknife, and opened one blade. Then he said, using words the must have picked up from some melodrama or fourth-rate movie: "This little fellow speaks every language," and he caressed the knife's sharp blade, "Speaks every language," he repeated. "You don't know how near you were to going to hospital. You'd better give me some money before you go." "I tried to humour him," said Alfred later. "I gave him a sixpence and a threepenny bit, patted him on the back, wished him good luck, then left and ran to Bow Street police station." Everything that had happened had taken place within two or three hundred yards of the police-station,

Stating that Chan Tok in fact occupied only a bed space in the house, Counsel said that his main ground for the application was that there had been a denial of justice to his client.

Counsel submitted that there was no evidence to show that his client was involved in the offence, and there was a possibility that a miscarriage of justice had been done. . He asked in conclusion that

Why we Say Bar-

Living

The word "barque" and "bargain" are related, for they both came from the Low Latin barca, a trading vessel. To Barcaniare was to traffic in merchandise brought from overseas, and a "bargain" was something rather rare and not easily come by. As a noun it now means something bought more cheaply than it is worth, and as a verb it means to make a
